

Pūkaha National Wildlife Centre Endowment Fund

The Pūkaha National Wildlife Centre Endowment Fund was one of the first funds to be established and managed by the Te Awa Community Foundation.

The Pūkaha reserve at Mount Bruce, Tararua is a restored forest and captive breeding site, home to endangered wildlife such as kiwi, pāteke, whio, takahē, kōkako, kākā, tuturuatu and tuna.

Public funding is not sufficient to cover the costs of running our conservation, education and trapping programmes, so we are totally reliant on the generosity of the community to continue our work.

Any contribution you can make to the Pūkaha National Wildlife Centre Endowment Fund helps continue our mission to re-create a predator free natural environment where rare native birds, plants and other wildlife thrive.

All donations to the Pūkaha National Wildlife Centre Endowment Fund are invested wisely in perpetuity, so your gift remains in the fund forever. Each year the interest earned by the fund makes an essential contribution to Pūkaha's valuable work. This ensures your gift really does keep on giving - year after year.

For your information, please note that our legal name is Pūkaha Mount Bruce Board and our registered charity number is CC20604. Our website is www.pukaha.org.nz and you can contact us with any questions via info@pukaha.org.nz

Thank you for supporting the Pūkaha National Wildlife Centre Endowment Fund.
